Auditions/Presentation Evening: Monday 11th June

'An Englishman Abroad' is based on the true story of a meeting in Moscow between Coral Browne, an actress, and Guy Burgess, the notorious member of the 'Cambridge Five' who worked for the Soviet Union whilst with MI6. 'A Question of Attribution' is based on Anthony Blunt, another member of the 'Cambridge Five' and personal art advisor to the Queen. It portrays his interrogation by MI5 officers, his work researching and restoring art, and his relationship with Her Majesty.
